

Nabtesco Receives “2015 Supplier of the Year” from Boeing

Nabtesco Corporation (headquarters: Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo; President & CEO: Kazuaki Kotani) has been recognized as 2015 Supplier of the Year in the collaboration category by The Boeing Company (headquarters: Chicago, Illinois; Chairman, President and Chief Executive Officer: Dennis A. Muilenburg). We are honored to receive the Supplier of the Year award for the third time to include the Boeing President's Award in 1995.

Nabtesco first started working for Boeing in 1976 and since then we have built a great partnership over the years. Nabtesco supplies Flight Control Actuation Systems (FCAS) and Hydraulic Equipment for the Boeing 737, 747, 767, 777 and 737 MAX. Most recently, Nabtesco was awarded the contract for 777X FCAS in 2015.

We believe that this selection was based on achieving stringent performance criteria for technical expertise, customer service, and environmental initiatives. This is in addition to delivering products of the highest quality, at the right time and to the highest standards of safety, that comply with Boeing's exact specifications.

The Supplier of the Year award is a great motivation for all our employees. It encourages us to challenge even greater heights in the future. We would like to further contribute to our mutual growth and success by continuing our efforts to innovate in the areas of products, manufacturing and services. We hope that our continuous efforts to innovate will contribute to safe, reliable, and comfortable air travel for the ultimate end user.

(Supplier of the Year Event @ Seattle on April 13, 2016)